

Sports & Entertainment Spotlight

Sports & Entertainment Spotlight: Golden Moments and Silver Linings

By Joshua Bloomgarden on 8.9.24

Welcome back to the Spotlight! After years of training and trials, our United States' Olympians are assembling an impressive, gleaming mosaic of accomplishments as if their medals were tiles. In track & field, a new "World's Fastest Man" was crowned, his name is Noah Lyles. In gymnastics, a hard-fought redemption was earned for Simone Biles, both individually and alongside teammate Jordan Chiles. Even in defeat, the pair generated smiles, in a show of sportsmanship and grace they bowed to the victor, in so doing, cementing courage in their profiles. I would be remiss not to mention swimmer Katie Ledecky's continuing to stack up medals through butterflies, breaststrokes, and freestyles. In the meantime, don't forget USA basketball is in the gold medal game, so be sure to set your TV dials. Upon their return home, each of these athletes is going to receive endorsement deals in anything from technology to textiles and in their country be the opposite of exiles. I hope you enjoyed my poetic styles, and if you think I've run out of rhymes, I assure you I have them in piles.

- The US Army claims that Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson and his United Football League should refund the $6 million it paid for social media promotions intended to drive enlistments, when in actuality, no enlistments resulted from the promotions, and a number of enlistments may have even dropped out. Talk about being between a rock and a hard place.
- With sights set on appealing to a new generation of fans, the New York Yankees are putting out their own original content in the form of an animated Saturday morning cartoon series. On the one hand, I miss the good old days of winning the World Series. On the other hand, the series will be required curriculum for my boys.
- NBA All-Star Steph Curry stole the show on Thursday, as his mockumentary series "Mr. Throwback" launched on Peacock, while he played the role of Mr. Comeback in Paris, propelling Team USA—who trailed by as many as 17 points--into the gold medal game with a victory over Serbia. Excellently scripted if you ask me. Oh and by the way, the national bird of Serbia? You guessed it...the eastern imperial eagle.

- While recording artist Adele had a $130 million structure built specifically for her performance residency in Munich, Germany, another recording artist is paying $1.5 million to have his slapped his name on the side of a stadium, as Pitbull enters into a multiyear naming rights deal with Florida International University. The delta can almost certainly be attributed to there being more construction costs, and better pretzels and beer
-

Endorsement Deals, Sponsorships & Investments

Jolene Jolene will bring Atlanta its first women's sports bar

August 6, 2024 via Atlanta Reporter Newspaper

Dallas Trinity FC inks apparel deal with Nike, looks to do more

August 6, 2024 via wfaa.com

Pitbull Buys Naming Rights to Florida International Stadium for \$1.2 Million

August 6, 2024 via Variety

Sports

Sports Giants Shine on Wall Street, but Not All Escape Revenue Declines

August 8, 2024 via Front Office Sports

Women's March Madness Could Finally Get \$25M in 'Units'

August 7, 2024 via Front Office Sports

Simone Biles' Post-Olympic Tour Could Make Millions

August 6, 2024 via Sportico.com

PrizePicks Names Ex-Blizzard Exec as New CEO

August 5, 2024 via Sportico.com

Major League Cricket Is Luring the World's Top Stars With Cash and Connections

July 30, 2024 via Front Office Sports

Music Biz

British startup sues Spotify for alleged patent infringement over 'Remote Group Session' and 'Jam' features

August 8, 2024 via Music Business Worldwide

The RIAA, villain of the Napster era, turns its sights on AI firms -- 'It's a lot more fun now'

August 7, 2024 via Los Angeles Times

Film & TV

'Noah, Simone & Katie Are Golden—So Are Olympics on Linear TV

August 6, 2024 via Sportico

NFL Dominates Docuseries Landscape With 'Hard Knocks' and Netflix Hits

August 5, 2024 via Front Office Sports

How Athletes Are Changing the Broadcasting Game

August 5, 2024 via Front Office Sports

NBC's Gold Zone proving new opportunities for Olympic viewing -- and perhaps other sports in the future

August 5, 2024 via Sports Business Journal

Noah Lyles' Gold Medal Helps Sunday Deliver NBCU's Second Biggest U.S. Audience Of Paris Olympics

August 5, 2024 via Deadline

NBC Sports 'likely' to introduce 'multiview' feature for Premier League coverage

August 2, 2024 via The Athletic