Webinar
June 16, 2025

Foster Garvey brought together public sector employers and higher education institutions from across Washington to tackle one of today's most pressing challenges: preparing for labor negotiations in a time of uncertainty.

Attorneys Alyssa A. Melter, Michael S. Brunet, Jared Van Kirk and Kelly M. Woodward led a conversation on how shifting economic conditions, evolving workforce expectations and legal changes are reshaping bargaining dynamics. From setting a strategy to building the right team, the presenters shared insights designed to help you move from preparation to execution with confidence.

The session drew a strong turnout from HR leaders, labor professionals and representatives from colleges and universities seeking tools to approach negotiations more strategically.

Policy to Practice continues to offer public employers a space to engage with timely issues, gain legal perspective and walk away with usable next steps. For more information or to be added to the invitation list, contact events@foster.com.
