Foster Garvey PC is pleased to announce Jennifer R. Castleberry will serve as the firm's new Chief Marketing & Business Development Officer. With a proven track record of leadership and innovation, Castleberry will lead an integrated marketing, communications and business development team in driving forward client-centric strategic initiatives at the firm. Castleberry will be based in Foster Garvey's Seattle office.

"Jennifer's business acumen and legal marketing expertise is unrivaled. Her thoughtful and anticipatory approach to client service is well aligned with our longstanding commitment to best-in-class counsel," said Foster Garvey COO Scott Flichtbeil. "As we look toward the continued success of our combination, Jennifer will have a key role in advancing our strategic plan, practice integration and growth, and the future of our firm."

Castleberry joins most recently from Lane Powell where she served as its first Chief Marketing and Client Experience Officer and oversaw enterprise strategic planning, marketing, communications, partnerships and sales enablement strategies. Her experience further ranges from building and leading a global team at Perkins Coie to serving as a founding member of a dedicated innovation team at Davis Wright Tremaine. She is a sought-after speaker on professional development topics, including executive presence, marketing strategies and women's empowerment. Her work has also been recognized with multiple accolades from the Legal Marketing Association and The Webby Awards.
