I always try to put myself in my client's shoes. How would I like the matter to be handled if it were my problem? If there are roadblocks to a fair, cost-effective resolution of the issue, how can the roadblocks be overcome?

Bill concentrates his practice in all phases of complex commercial litigation, including trials. He has litigated a broad range of commercial disputes. His experience encompasses legal malpractice defense, suits alleging the theft of trade secrets and violations of non-competition clauses, eminent domain proceedings, and cases involving environmental contamination and the breach of real estate and other contracts. Bill has successfully litigated cases in the Chancery and Law Divisions of the state courts, as well as in the federal courts of both New Jersey and New York.

Bill also has over three decades of experience in the area of attorney ethics, loss prevention and legal malpractice defense. He has defended attorneys in legal malpractice cases and in attorney ethics proceedings. He counsels attorneys on how to avoid legal malpractice claims, and is available to serve as an expert witness in both ethics and commercial litigation.

REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS

Results may vary depending on your particular facts and legal circumstances.

- Harrington, et al v. Director, Division of Taxation, et al. Bill represented the plaintiffs, a group of former co-workers who won a $216 million jackpot in New Jersey's Mega Millions lottery contest. When the plaintiffs purchased their winning ticket and received their winnings, New Jersey law exempted lottery winnings from State income tax. However, months later, the State changed the rules to retroactively tax lottery winnings, including plaintiffs' winnings in the Mega Millions contest. Plaintiffs prevailed in the Tax Court when the Tax Court granted partial summary judgment in their favor, ordering the State to refund plaintiffs' State income tax on their winnings. The judgment was memorialized in a settlement agreement, and the plaintiffs received a full refund of the State income tax, plus interest. Read more here.
- The Geon Company v. Cary Compounds. Multi-national corporation brought an action against a New Jersey company for damages for alleged misappropriation of its formulas and trade secrets. Bill obtained a no cause judgment after six weeks of trial.
- G & W Laboratories v. Able Laboratories. Pharmaceutical manufacturer sued another pharmaceutical company for alleged theft of formulas and trade secrets. Bill defended the Complaint and plaintiff dropped its case after five weeks of trial.
- Middlesex County Utilities Authority v. Edgeboro Landfill. Bill defended landfill owner in eminent domain action. After approximately 40 days of hearings, a settlement was reached that resulted in a payment of almost $40 million to Bill's client. The Authority's good faith settlement offer prior to the hearings was $3.5 million.
- Sgro v. Getty Petroleum Corp. In this case, reported at 854 F. Supp. 1164 (D.N.J. 1994), the owner of a gas station property sued Getty alleging that Getty was obligated to remove underground storage tanks from his property. Bill successfully defended the action, resulting in a judgment for the defendant.
