Sean's practice focuses on complex commercial litigation, with an emphasis on business disputes, non-compete, trade secret, business ownership, employer-employee disputes, real property litigation, and various other commercial and tort claims. Additionally, he has experience in construction defect litigation and representing a variety of clients in the construction industry, including owners, condominium and homeowners associations, developers, contractors, subcontractors, and sureties.

Prior to and during law school, Sean served 14 years on active duty and an additional six years on reserve duty in the United States Marine Corps, retiring shortly before joining the firm.

During law school, Sean served as Articles & Symposia Editor of the Stetson Law Review. He was the recipient of the Stetson Law Review Leadership Award and is a published author in the Stetson Law Review, Volume 50, Issue 1. Sean also competed as an advocate on Stetson's Moot Court Board. His accomplishments included winning the 2019 National Veterans Law Moot Court Competition and being selected to the national Order of Barristers.

In addition, he served as a teaching assistant to two criminal law classes, one property law class, and three research & writing classes.

Outside of the office, Sean enjoys playing basketball, umpiring high school baseball, spending time with his family, following the University of Florida athletics, and cheering on all of Tampa Bay's sports teams.
