Hill Ward Henderson is pleased to announce Andrew E. Holway was recently selected to join the Associated Builders and Contractors' (ABC) 2018-2019 NEXGEN Leadership Program. The training program is an 8-month series of events designed to enhance the leadership skills and knowledge of high-potential construction professionals. Through monthly educational sessions, leadership training, peer-to-peer networking, and community involvement activities, ABC's NEXGEN prepares professionals for leadership roles within their company and with ABC. Individuals must be nominated by their employer, have current or future management, decision-making responsibilities and have been in the construction industry for at least a year. Applicants go through a rigorous selection process to fill the 25-30 seats available.

Mr. Holway is an Associate in the firm's Construction & Design Group. He is frequently engaged in construction claims, design claims, contract documents, project management, and insurance and surety areas. His practice primarily involves representing owners, developers, contractors, design professionals, subcontractors, and sureties in transactional matters and in litigation/arbitration.
