On February 20, 2014, Hill Ward Henderson served as a proud sponsor of Hillsborough Education Foundation's Excellence in Education 2014 Awards. The Awards program showcased educators and school personnel who consistently bring forth their best efforts and utilize their talents to ensure the students they serve receive the best education possible. Each year this prestigious event has over 2,600 attendees representing over 240 schools in Hillsborough County Public Schools. During the event, Patrick Boyko with Jefferson High School, was bestowed with the honor of being named the 2014 Teacher of the Year.

Hill Ward Henderson is pleased to support the Hillsborough Education Foundation in its efforts in ensuring the academic success of students. The law firm remains committed to supporting educational programs positively impacting the lives of deserving young men and women and encouraging their continued growth and success.
