legal expertise

Corey Singer represents employers in all areas of labor and employment law, with a specialized focus on the dynamic challenges prevalent in the media, entertainment, and technology industries. His extensive track record includes resolving disputes encompassing discrimination, harassment, retaliation, wrongful termination, union matters, and wage and hour class action claims, consistently securing favorable outcomes for his clients. Known for his proactive approach, Corey seamlessly aligns legal strategies with client objectives and delivers tailored solutions. As a trusted authority, Corey's unwavering commitment to legal excellence and his industry-specific expertise distinguishes him as a reliable partner in navigating complex legal landscapes.

representative matters

- Secured complete summary judgment on behalf of Warner Bros. in a case involving claims of reverse discrimination, retaliation, and harassment by a former television camera operator on "The Big Bang Theory."
- Successfully secured early favorable resolutions in single plaintiff employment cases involving discrimination, harassment, retaliation, wrongful termination, and/or unfair competition allegations.
- Effectively defended and achieved favorable settlements in class and PAGA representative wage and hour actions, notably within the motion picture and television industry concerning issues related to late payment of wages, regular rate miscalculations, and missed or late breaks.
- Drafted and obtained successful outcomes through motions for summary judgment, motions to dismiss, and motions to compel arbitration on behalf of employers.
- Advocated for and obtained dismissals of multiple claims in guild disputes and arbitrations representing producers, even before arbitration hearings commenced.
