China and the United States signed the so-called Phase 1 Trade Deal on January 15, 2020, an agreement following months of escalating tariffs and in an effort to improve the current trade relationship between the two countries. It intends to open Chinese markets to more American companies, increase farm and energy exports, make many of the license and permit processes in China faster and more transparent, and provide greater protection for American technology and trade secrets.

Join MSK International Trade Chairperson Su Ross for this informative webinar hosted by The Foreign Trade Association, as she dives into the critical details of this trade pact between China and the U.S.

This webinar will take place on Wednesday, February 12th at 11:30 AM PST.
