

marc mayer named to the national law journal's 2017 list of "intellectual property trailblazers"

July 3, 2017

Marc Mayer has been named to The National Law Journal's 2017 list of "Intellectual Property Trailblazers." Marc Mayer was chosen for his niche work in video game anti-piracy, specifically protecting against software products that impact the online experience such as hacks, cheats, and bots.

The third annual issue is a special supplement that includes profiles of individuals who continue to make their mark in various aspects of legal work in the areas of patent, copyright, trademark, and trade secret law. While many of those recognized come at the regulatory and litigation processes from different angles, a common thread ties them together: each has shown a deep passion and perseverance in pursuit of their mission, having achieved remarkable successes along the way.
