

adam levin named to the national law journal's 2019 list of "employment law trailblazers"

March 1, 2019

Adam Levin has been named to the National Law Journal's 2019 list of "Employment Law Trailblazers." Adam was recognized for his work as counsel in high-profile employment discrimination cases for major studios including Warner Bros., Fox and Paramount. Adam's ongoing legal defense based on First Amendment principles for media companies in discrimination and wrongful termination cases was highlighted as well.

From the issue.

"Employment law attorneys have been busy this past year with the emergence of the #MeToo era. While some of our Employment Law Trailblazers have been right in the middle of these sexual harassment cases, others have been fighting for fairness through gender/race discrimination suits, wrongful termination, and more."
