

immigration law expertise

January 30, 2008

When Microsoft announced plans to open a software development facility in Vancouver as a way around U.S. visa caps that limit the company's ability to recruit top talent for U.S. positions, Workforce Management contributing editor Fay Hansen spoke with Frida Glucoft, Chair of MSK's Immigration Practice, about specific techniques for maximizing the utility of H-1Bs and alternative visa strategies.

attorneys

Frida P. Glucoft

practice areas

immigration

immigration