

lepera analyzes the duties owed by an artist's executive team and the myriad claims that can ensue in the ny law journal

September 11, 2012

Christine Lepera presents many of the disputes that arise between artists and their representatives in a September 10, 2012 New York Law Journal article, outlining the legal duties owed by particular representatives, how they may be breached, and what recent court rulings portend.

attorneys

Christine Lepera

practice areas

commercial litigation entertainment & ip litigation entertainment transactions intellectual property
litigation