

marc mayer and mark humphrey noted in pc gamer

PC Gamer

January 12, 2021

Marc Mayer and Mark Humphrey were noted in the article, "Riot and Bungie Team Up to Sue Cheat Maker," published by PC Gamer on January 12, 2021. The case was also referenced in the article, "Destiny 2 and Valorant Cheat Maker Shuts Down in the Face of Major Lawsuit," published by PC Gamer on January 14, 2021.

From the article published on January 14, 2021...

"One of the creators of cheat software for Destiny 2 and Valorant is shutting down, just days after developers Bungie and Riot Games filed a joint lawsuit against them. At the time of writing, GatorCheats' website reveals that 'in compliance with a lawsuit filed by Riot Games and Bungie, GatorCheats will be shut down indefinitely.'"

From the article published on January 12, 2021...

"The lawsuit claims GatorCheats cost the makers of Destiny 2 and Valorant 'millions of dollars'...The lawsuit notes that both Destiny 2 and Valorant are free, and that Bungie and Riot earn thus money through the sale of virtual items in their games."

View Full Article from January 14, 2021

View Full Article from January 12, 2021

attorneys

Mark C. Humphrey

Marc E. Mayer

practice areas

intellectual property

video game