Russell Frackman was highlighted in the article, "The Wisdom of a Yogi," published by Super Lawyers Magazine for their 2021 Southern California edition in January 2021.

From the article...

"It struck me as very appropriate to my career,' Frackman says via email. 'I came across it several years ago, just before I received an award from the Grammy Foundation. I decided to start my acceptance speech with the quote because I never set out to be an intellectual property or entertainment litigator, and in fact never had a copyright course in law school. When I graduated law school, I literally did not know where I was going either geographically (a Brooklyn boy in LA) or professionally (I started at the law firm as a probate lawyer)."
