MSK Partner David Gordon was quoted in the article "More U.S. states are making employers say how much they pay," published by CBS MoneyWatch on October 5, 2022, commenting on new laws in several states that require employers to include salary ranges in job listings.

From the article...

"It would be prudent for any employer that doesn't want to run afoul of the law to have someone in place monitoring any job postings internal or external to ensure they comply with what the law requires," Gordon said."
