

The Anti-Indemnity Train Continues

Amundsen Davis Transportation Alert
January 15, 2016

On December 22, 2015, Ohio became the latest and 43rd state to adopt an anti-indemnification provision for transportation agreements. Effective March 21, 2016, the bill voids any section of a transportation contract that indemnifies the promisee from liability when the loss was caused by the promisee's actions. This statute does not apply to the UIIA.

For more information on anti-indemnification statutes nationwide, please see our December update. For more information on anti-indemnity statutes in the transportation industry and risk mitigation strategies, contact Christine Anto or Lew Bricker.
