

Christine Pedersen

Chicago, IL

312.894.3277 | cpedersen@amundsendavislaw.com

CHIEF TECHNOLOGY OFFICER

Overview

As Amundsen Davis's Chief Technology Officer, Christine is responsible for the management, implementation and usability of information and computer technology. She works with firm management to determine and lead the firm's technology strategy, and oversees the people, policies and procedures that make up the IT function of the firm.

With more than 20 years experience as an IT professional Christine is known for being creative and conscientious. She has experience with comprehensive end-to-end enterprise system implementation, application management, business process management, project management, and service management.