Overview

Colton understands that the law touches all aspects of life and practicing it allows him to assist people in a variety of circumstances.

At Amundsen Davis, he works with nonprofits, corporate real estate companies, and insurance providers on legal matters including drafting and reviewing contracts, civil defense, and counseling on liabilities and risk assessment. He fosters strong, genuine relationships with clients, going beyond legal advice to offer strategic guidance that aligns with their long term goals.

Colton goes the extra mile to identify and address client needs outside the immediate scope of a case. He aims to anticipate challenges before they arise, offer creative solutions, and provide exceptional value by ensuring that every detail is thoroughly considered.

Colton enjoys working with proactive and forward-thinking clients who view legal counsel as a strategic partner in their growth. He finds fulfillment in helping entrepreneurs, startups, and established businesses navigate complex legal landscapes, whether structuring deals, managing risk, or scaling operations.
