Overview

Driven by a genuine enjoyment of solving legal puzzles, Jennifer (She/Her) takes a big-picture approach to translating complex concepts into clear legal insights for her clients. As a result of her ability to think beyond the task in front of her and uncover strategic issues early, Jennifer excels at approaching problems with the desired end goals in mind.

As an associate in the firm's General Liability Service Group, Jennifer primarily works with clients in the insurance, construction, and property management industries. She frequently handles bad faith insurance, breach of contract, and premises liability issues. In addition to advising business teams, her past experience includes supporting a judge at the Chancery Division of the Circuit Court of Cook County and international work experience.

Outside of the office, Jennifer finds balance through fiction writing, yoga, and meditation.
