ASSOCIATE

Overview

To Michael, going the extra mile means taking initiative—not only doing what is asked of him, but taking action without being asked in order to exceed expectations. Clients appreciate the deep care he applies to his legal work and understand that his kindness is not a sign of weakness; he is a tenacious advocate in and out of court.

At Amundsen Davis, he handles matters of contract interpretation, workplace injuries, negligence, premises liability, and insurance defense in the corporate and insurance industries.
