OF COUNSEL

Overview

Tom has a way of making every client feel like his only client. For almost 40 years he's focused his practice on commercial law, representing lenders and creditors in the extension and collection of credit and credit facilities, covering many types of financing structures. His experience includes loan documentation for many Wisconsin based and nationwide commercial lenders, general corporate law, mergers and acquisitions, and general contract drafting and review, and workouts, collections and bankruptcy issues. He is also experienced in business litigation, insurance related litigation and coverage matters.

Tom works closely with his lender clients in the negotiation and drafting of loan documents, to ensure the credit is accurately stated and properly secured. He also has extensive experience in the enforcement of loan documents, as well as other commercial contracts. Tom also routinely represents businesses and municipal entities in reviewing, drafting and interpreting a wide variety of contracts involving many subjects.

Prior to law school Tom studied languages, which helps to make him the legal writer he is today. His clients appreciate his ability to clearly communicate complex legal matters.
