

Products Liability

Tenth Annual McGill Conference on International Aviation Liability and Insurance;
Montreal, Quebec
June 22, 2017 | 1:30PM - 2:30PM

McGill University hosts their Tenth Annual McGill Conference on International Aviation Liability and Insurance on June 22 through June 23, 2017. This event brings together world-leading aviation liability and insurance experts to address recent developments in aviation liability and insurance, liability of airlines, airports, maintenance providers & ANSPs, products liability of Manufacturers and lessors of aircraft, engines & component parts, governmental liability, and more.

On the first day of the conference, June 22, Brandt Madsen participates in a breakout session discussing products liability. Brandt and his co-presenters will discuss:

- Does governmental certification preempt tort claims?
- Recoverable damages
- The conflict between North American and European courts
- TCAS, Autopilot and Automation
- Will we see more use of the Hague Convention on Products Liability?
- Is there Liability Exposure for Foul Cabin Air and Radiation?
- What is the liability for the use of counterfeit parts

To learn more, and to register, visit McGill University's website here.

RELATED SERVICES

Aerospace