

They Paved Paradise and Put Up a Toxic Waste Facility

Speaking Engagement

State Bar of Wisconsin Annual Meeting & Conference

June 15, 2023

There are many aspects to consider when creating a toxic waste facility, especially given the number of parties involved in the process, from the developers to government agencies to the citizens. Tiffany Woelfel recently joins a panel to discuss the connection between private and public interests, and the legal concerns when dealing with these facilities.
