

Achieved a Significant Victory Raising the Adequacy Bar for Certification

Amundsen Davis achieved a significant victory from the Seventh Circuit vacating class certification. In the opinion, written by Judge Posner, the Seventh Circuit raised the bar that class counsel must clear in order to satisfy the adequacy prong for class certification. To secure this significant result, the class action team took an unconventional approach by raising only the issue of adequacy of class counsel in our brief.

PROFESSIONALS

Erin A. Walsh
Partner

RELATED SERVICES

Class Action