

Achieved a Successful Outcome for a Client Facing Allegations of Evidence Spoliation

Jorie achieved a successful outcome for a client in a case involving allegations of spoliation of video evidence. The opposing party contended that the failure to report an alleged incident amounted to the intentional destruction of evidence. After an evidentiary hearing in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, the court agreed that the opposing party failed to provide sufficient evidence of spoliation and denied the request for an adverse inference jury instruction.
