

Won a Defense Verdict for an Emergency Room Physician After He Allegedly Failed to Diagnose Toxic Shock Syndrome

Teri won a defense verdict for an emergency room physician after he allegedly failed to diagnose toxic shock syndrome. The plaintiff alleged that the defendants, including the emergency physician, failed to diagnosis and treat toxic shock syndrome. The descendent died in hospital from complications and sepsis.

PROFESSIONALS

Terese A. Drew
Partner

RELATED SERVICES

General Liability