

Won a Defense Verdict in a Premises Liability Case Involving an Arsonist

Amundsen Davis won a defense verdict for property owners facing premises liability allegations after an arsonist started a fire in their building. A resident of the building died trying to escape the fire after re-entering the building for an unknown reason. The jury trial lasted one week in Cook County, Illinois, as one of the first in-person jury trials conducted live post-pandemic.

PROFESSIONALS

Jamie S. Lane
Partner

RELATED SERVICES

General Liability