

Attorney Madalyn S. Kinsey Joins Amundsen Davis's Financial Services Practice in Indianapolis

November 3, 2020

Amundsen Davis's Indianapolis office is pleased to welcome Madalyn S. Kinsey as a partner in its financial services practice group.

Madalyn is a 40 year veteran of the legal industry. Her career spans both private practice and in-house counsel roles with two global banking institutions.

The addition of Madalyn to our team will provide our financial institution clients with broadened capabilities in commercial real estate transactions. As former in-house counsel, Madalyn knows first hand the considerations banks face internally and will help us provide an even greater focus on that aspect of client service moving forward.

Madalyn focuses her practice on commercial real estate transactions and the representation of financial institutions in a wide variety of commercial lending transactions. She assists clients in structuring complex financing, issues pertaining to real estate as collateral, and recovery of problem commercial loans. Her experience includes the representation of lenders in asset-based lending, middle-market lending, large corporate and commercial syndications, floor plan financing, aircraft finance, construction financings, loans to ESOP's, bond financing, loans that are part of commercial mortgage backed securities and defeasance transactions. She also represents clients in work-outs and restructurings.

Madalyn is a graduate of Indiana University School of Law. She is licensed to practice in Indiana, Illinois and California.
