We are excited to announce that Stephen D. Pauwels has joined our Labor, Employment & Immigration Service Group as a Senior Counsel in our Chicago office.

Stephen brings nearly a decade of litigation experience to the firm, having represented employers of all sizes—from some of the world's largest companies to local family businesses in state and federal courts and before administrative agencies on matters including employment discrimination, trade secrets, wage and hour claims, and non-compete agreements, among myriad others. He also helps his clients navigate everyday employment issues, such as FMLA leave, employee discipline and termination, internal investigations, and maintaining employee handbooks and agreements.

Stephen understands that today's employers need a trusted advisor to keep them on top of ever-shifting legal and regulatory requirements. We are happy to have him!
