

Defending Cannabis Regulatory Enforcement Actions

DRI's For the Defense
November 2020

The growing cannabis industry has come to terms with having to operate within the confines of a strict regulatory scheme. When defending regulatory enforcement actions against cannabis businesses, attorneys must be meticulous and have a comprehensive understanding for the state's regulations.

In Mike McGrory's article titled, "Defending Cannabis Regulatory Enforcement Actions," featured in the November 2020 issue of the Defense Research Institute's (DRI) For the Defense magazine he reviews federal cannabis law, common characteristics of regulatory programs and offers tips for defending regulatory enforcement actions.

Mike's full article can be read in DRI's For the Defense November 2020 issue here.
