"FTZs and subzones are dedicated areas where goods can land, be repackaged, modified, manipulated, relabeled, manufactured further, and re-exported without paying U.S. custom duties."

In Ngosong Fonkem's article, "Improving Global Competitiveness with Foreign Trade Zone Programs," he discusses what defines foreign trade zones, the benefits of using foreign trade zones, the implications of sections 301 and 232 tariffs and how to obtain an FTZ designation.
