Sophisticated Clients Facing Complex Issues

Our Practice advises private-sector corporations, trade associations, nonprofits, and financial institutions, as well as individuals and government officials, across a broad spectrum of regulatory, arbitral, and judicial disputes, both domestically and around the world.

Our clients' matters span a wide range of issues including complex commercial, administrative, campaign finance, government contracting, and election law litigation; international arbitration and trade; civil RICO, False Claims Act, and other white collar matters; securities litigation; government investigations and associated private litigation and enforcement proceedings; sovereign immunity and complex jurisdictional issues; and administrative agency appeals.

We have successfully briefed and argued such cases in the U.S. Supreme Court, every federal circuit, and numerous district and state supreme courts, as well as before Congress, the Executive branch, and countless administrative agencies. We also have a thriving commercial and international arbitration practice with extensive experience in ICC, ICSID, and UNCITRAL arbitral proceedings.

Dynamic Matters and Cross-Disciplinary Solutions

We bring a cross-section of Wiley's practice areas to every case, ensuring the strategies we develop for our clients account for the law, press, political environment, and client sensitivities. Whereas other litigation shops may partner with subject-matter experts in joint representations, Wiley's one-office model and breadth of expertise make us a true one-stop-shop for complex litigation.

We litigate, arbitrate, try to verdict, and appeal cases – successfully. And we are also uniquely positioned to coordinate dual litigation and crisis- or PR-management plans, and craft cutting-edge offensive and defensive litigation strategies to protect our clients' interests across multiple fronts. As one portion of our team develops and executes a winning litigation strategy, others may be in touch with relevant administrative agencies, the Department of Justice, legislators, lobbyists, or the White House as the case may demand.

A Culture of Giving Back

Wiley also prides itself on a strong tradition of service to the local and global community and enthusiastically encourages its attorneys and staff to participate in pro bono activities. Last year, our attorneys and legal assistants conducted almost 9,000 hours of pro bono work on nearly 150 matters in numerous forums, including the U.S. Supreme Court.
