Diane advises clients on broadband, media, consumer protection, and universal service issues, with an emphasis on regulatory compliance and support. She is experienced in drafting advocacy, correspondence, and research materials to support clients' goals. She has served as lead counsel for regulatory proceedings on net neutrality, broadband infrastructure deployment, internet protocol (IP) transitions, and enforcement reform. Diane also advises clients on navigating the changing landscape of diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) issues resulting from legal, regulatory, and market changes.

She has deep expertise navigating the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and senior-level experience advising Commissioners. She has over 20 years of experience working in the federal government, and prior to joining Wiley, Diane was the Deputy Chief and Special Advisor for the Wireline Competition Bureau at the FCC.

Representative Matters

- Led the regulation, management, and oversight of FCC programs that support affordable high-speed broadband service.
