Megan Co-Chairs the firm's Privacy, Cyber & Data Governance practice. She and her team advise global clients and associations on new cybersecurity and data governance regulations, and best practices and standards, including incident reporting obligations and baseline operational mandates. She represents corporations in complex agency investigations and Congressional inquiries about cyber and network security.

Megan helps organizations engage in implementation of Executive Orders (AI, cybersecurity, data transfers, post-quantum cryptography, and more) and proceedings at the CISA, FCC, FTC, DOJ, Commerce, and NIST, as well as in the states. She is leading a legal challenge to a TSA cybersecurity directive, has led advocacy in Congress, and testified before the U.S. Senate.

As a former senior Department of Justice official, Megan helps clients navigate the Executive Branch and helps with national security issues. She serves on the U.S. Chamber of Commerce's Cybersecurity Leadership Council, is a Senior Fellow at the George Mason University Antonin Scalia Law School's National Security Institute, co-hosted a cybersecurity podcast with American University's School of Public Service and CrowdStrike, and serves on the Board of the Women's High-Tech Coalition.
