2012 Election Results: What They Mean for Your Business

Washington, DC
November 8, 2012

Please join us in person or via the web for a complimentary briefing on the 2012 election results and their implications for the business community.

Wiley Rein attorneys and public policy consultants will provide a comprehensive analysis of the presidential and congressional races and assess potential changes in leadership positions in the Executive branch, administrative agencies, and congressional committees. They will also provide insight into how the election results will potentially affect key regulatory and enforcement issues in the following areas:

- Communications
- Government Contracts
- Health Care
- International Trade
- Enforcement/White Collar

Participants can attend in person or via the web.
