The Dispatch Quotes Jason McCullough on DOJ Resource Shifts Affecting White Collar Enforcement

The Dispatch

April 16, 2026

In The Dispatch article, Has the Trump Administration Retreated on White-Collar Crime?, Jason McCullough is quoted regarding the shifting Department of Justice priorities on Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) enforcement and redirecting resources to other initiatives, stating, "In any organization with finite resources, establishing new priorities has the effect of diverting time spent on other areas. That is a function of there being only 24 hours in a day."
