

Law360* Names Wiley Rein's Government Contracts Practice a "Group of the Year"

Spring 2011

Wiley Rein's Government Contracts Practice has been named by Law360 a "Government Contracts Group of the Year," one of five practices singled out nationwide for their demonstrated ability to "help government contractors flourish in treacherous conditions." Profiling the group, Law360 spotlights Wiley Rein's representation of Boeing in its successful protest of the Air Force's award of a $35 billion tanker contract, a matter described as "one of the biggest procurement disputes in history in terms of dollar value."

In choosing its "Government Contracts Groups of the Year," Law360 editors vetted more than 400 submissions, and made their selections based on the number of the groups' significant wins and the size, number and complexity of their deals.