Wiley Rein's International Trade and Privacy Practices Included in Chambers Global Worldwide Rankings; Several Attorneys Named Leading Lawyers

March 29, 2011

For their demonstrated "ability to work across continents," the 2011 edition of Chambers Global: The World's Leading Lawyers for Business has included the firm's International Trade and Privacy Practices in its worldwide rankings.

Several individual attorneys are singled out by Chambers Global as leading lawyers. Privacy Practice chair Kirk J. Nahra is named a Leading Privacy & Data Security Lawyer and is "highly recommended for his great knowledge, fast turnaround and pragmatic approach." John B. Reynolds, III is commended in the privacy law arena for his "ability to command respect, knowledge and practical advice." Mr. Reynolds also is named an "experienced and very highly regarded CFIUS expert" and is recognized as a Leading Lawyer for his work in the areas of Export Controls & Economic Sanctions.

International Trade Practice chair Alan H. Price is named a Leading Lawyer in the area of Trade Remedies & Trade Policy for his handling of litigation and anti-dumping and countervailing duty matters. Charles Owen Verrill, Jr., who serves as chairman emeritus of the group is named a Senior Statesman in the same field.

The Chambers Global ratings span the legal markets of more than 180 countries and are based on extensive interviews of clients and attorneys.
