

PRESS RELEASE

Alan Price Named by U.S. Chamber of Commerce to Independent Experts Group Focusing on Global Competition and Trade Policy

August 29, 2016

Press Contact

Patricia O'Connell
T: 202.719.4532
poconnell@wiley.law

Washington, DC— Alan H. Price, partner and chair of Wiley Rein's International Trade Practice, was recently named by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce to a diverse group of leading experts commissioned to consider the challenges presented by globally divergent approaches to antitrust and the interface between competition policy and trade policy. After its deliberations, the group will issue a series of recommendations for how the United States should approach these challenges.

This independent, 15-member group is expected to seek outside input from a range of interests before issuing its recommendations by the end of January 2017. Members of the group include a deep bench of legal experts and scholars with extensive government experience. To learn more about the group and the types of issues it is likely to examine, please click here.

Recognized internationally for his leadership and deep experience in trade remedy and policy issues, Mr. Price has 30 years of experience representing clients in high-profile, complex international trade regulatory matters. In addition to serving as chair of Wiley Rein's International Trade Practice, he heads the firm's antidumping (AD)

Related Professionals

Alan H. Price
Partner
202.719.3375
aprice@wiley.law

Practice Areas

International Trade

and countervailing duty (CVD) practice. He is lead international trade counsel to Nucor, the largest and most diversified steel producer in the United States, and also serves as lead counsel to the Wind Tower Trade Coalition in U.S. AD and CVD cases involving renewable energy products.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce is the world's largest business organization representing the interests of more than 3 million businesses of all sizes, sectors, and regions.