Today the American Bar Association (ABA) published the sixth edition of The Election Law Primer for Corporations, authored by Jan Witold Baran, founder of Wiley Rein's Election Law & Government Ethics Practice. To read an excerpt of the book, click here.

The laws governing campaign finance and lobbying have changed significantly since the previous edition of the book was published seven years ago. Numerous court decisions and new laws have led to changes in the way corporations, super political action committees (PACs), and independent advertisers operate. Contribution limits and aggregate limits on individuals have changed, while rules governing the formation and operation of PACs have remained largely unchanged for more than 40 years.

The updated primer includes nine chapters that cover campaign finance rules, PACs, campaign communications and activities, lobbying laws, tax considerations, and enforcement.

"The original Primer was devoted exclusively to the basic principles of federal campaign finance laws that regulated political activity by corporations, executives, employees, and stockholders." Mr. Baran explains in the book's Preface. "Over the years, the Primer expanded to related legal areas and now includes explanations about the regulation of lobbying activities, ethics rules, and tax laws."
